Firestone Library Staff Forms Union as Colleges across Nation Watch Developments

Library workers at Princeton University, mostly graduate students' wives or working housewives, have formed a union for themselves ("PULA"), thereby taking on the University and its battery of Philadelphia lawyers and setting up a case which campuses all across the country are watching with care.

The 200 workers are the full-time non-professionals who do cataloguing, shelving and tiling. They bind books and staff the circulation desk. They search out books for students who want to know what the library has to help with a thesis.

PULA (Princeton University Library Assistants Association) does not include the professional library staff. They are not organized.

In April, the National Labor Relations Board's regional office held three days of hearings, and last week, the office announced its approval of PULA. Elections will be held, the NLRB said, when enough employees get back from vacation. The election will decide whether PULA wants to be represented by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees. PULA affiliated with AFSCME early this year.

But the University has appealed the NLRB regional decision to the NLRB national office and expects a response in late July.

At issue-- apart from the issues that caused library workers to start PULA in the first place-- is whether it's more appropriate to have one small departmental union or one umbrella union of all University office and clerical workers.

The University, naturally, doesn't like the idea of small, separate unions sprouting up here and there. Separate job actions, separate negotiations could keep the University under a constant whipsaw.

Already, there are three unions on campus-- the veteran service employees union dating back to about 1940, the operating engineers and the painters.

"We get along fine," says William S. Reed, the University's Director of Personnel Services.

"But the University doesn't regard the library as an appropriate unit," he continues. "The work library non-professionals do is similar to the work people do in other areas. And when you apply for that kind of job, you're assigned at random: it could be the library, it could be somewhere else."

No campus, so far, has a package union of all clerical employees. Mr Reed says. Brown University and the University of Pennsylvania both have unions of non-professional library workers, but neither institution protested when these unions were formed. (Brown had a strike last year of these workers, which closed the University briefly.) Yale's food-service workers are unionized and have already been on strike once, forcing Yale to end its spring term a week early.

In giving its nod of approval to PULA, the NLRB said either unit

Fiscal Crisis Facing New Jersey Could Cost Princeton Regional Schools $502,000 in Aid

"We're sitting tight: the doesn't hold school that many legislature COULD concoct days, it loses state aid. If there something," said Princeton school board president Winthrop Pike this week of the financial disaster that seems to be facing New Jersey's 580 Princeton gets is what school districts as a result of Governor Brendan T. Byrne's $384-million budget cut.

"I've learned not to get excited," was the philosophical comment of the schools' business manager Ronald Novak.

Princeton is scheduled to lose $502,879.

"That's a 6 1/4 percent drop in the school budget and a district will only be getting helluva lot of money," Mr. Pike said bleakly.

He and his eight colleagues on the board haven't developed many plans for coping with the half-million loss, Mr. Pike said, because of what the legislature might "concoct."

At last report, the concoction was a one-point increase in the sales tax; 50 percent increases in motor vehicle registration and which has been cut to 84 percent of its former total.

Up By 50 Percent. Higher up the educational line, state colleges' tuition is expected to rise by 50 percent, and the state contribution to county colleges like Mercer County Community College, may be cut by 25 percent. Independent colleges, may lose one-half their state aid.

Schools aren't the only ones to suffer. Princeton's commuters may find that Penn Central's 36 round trips between Philadelphia and New York have been reduced to 16, and fares raised 55 percent.

Options Listed. "We could dip into our reserves, but we've got only $300,000 as of July 1, and I hate to see it go lower," Mr. Pike mused. "We could shorten the school year or cut back on various programs. Probably it will be a combination, but I hate to be more specific. The way we feel is, why go through it all again? We'd rather wait and see and not have to plan twice."

As Mr. Pike understands it, school district would be the 180-day school year simply means that if a school system on the basis of equalized valuations of tax rateables, rather than on the basis of the number of pupils. This would mean that Princeton Borough, with more rateables than pupils, in proportion to Princeton Township, would be hit by cost increases amounting to about $435,000. Princeton's school expenses are now shared on a per-pupil basis between Borough and Township.

Opinion from Counsel. This week, Princeton attorney William Miller told Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley he thought it was constitutional to apportion school costs on a per-pupil basis. The mayor had sought Mr. Miller's opinion.

Mr. Miller, who is counsel for the Princeton Regional Planning Board, had served on the staff of the income tax committee appointed by former Governor William Cahill, and is known throughout the state as an authority on municipal taxation and municipal government.

"I sent the letter detailing his opinion to various legislators," Mayor Cawley said, "I knew his name would be recognized and his opinion read with respect."

"There is certainly no indication that pupils educated in a regional school district supported on a per-pupil basis...are for that reason denied a thorough and efficient education," Mr. Miller wrote. Parents may pay different tax rates, depending on where they live, "but there is no rule that different tax rates, of themselves, violate the 'thorough and efficient' clause of New Jersey's constitution," Mr. Miller said.

Meanwhile, everybody "waits and sees." Senator Martindell has urged voters to write legislators, "especially Republicans" demanding "an equitable tax package."

She herself says, "I hope to restore cuts in the budget by means of a fair tax based on ability to pay. The result of budget cuts or enactment of nuisance taxes, will simply mean that our property taxes will rise. Statewide, it is a total disaster."

problem for an hour or so, moved not to make a favorable recommendation on the ground that it wasn't good planning for the neighborhood to allow retail establishments. Nobody seconded his motion.

The Sheehan building has been standing, uncompleted, for a number of years on the corner of Nassau and Markham. Mr. Sheehan's attorney, William Baggott, told the board the building can't be completed as it now stands because it would cost too much. With two more floors and additional retail space, however, Mr. Sheehan could afford to finish up.

He conceded, upon board remonstrance, that Mr. Sheehan's economic hardships aren't the province of the Planning Board, but of the Zoning Board when Mr. Sheehan goes there for bulk variances.

"The structure is undesirable from a planning point of view," Mr. Rose said could be appropriate: all the University's 800-odd office workers, or the library alone. Apparently, the law doesn't require THE most appropriate unit, only AN appropriate unit.

Evelyn Diephouse, a leader in the formation of PULA, points to a precedent in Claremont Colleges, California. Library workers there were approved as a union, she points out, because it was decided they had a community of interest, common supervision, specialization of their work duties and no working interchange with office workers in the rest of the institution.

PULA was formed because the non-professionals were unhappy about salaries.

Salaries Surveyed. "We felt they were lower than other salaries on campus and that the campus itself was lower than the rest of the area," Mr. Diephouse says. "People were being taken advantage of."

"The University claimed that its benefits made up the difference, but we decided we wanted to get information independently. We set up a task force on salaries-- I was chair person-- and asked library non-professionals to write down, anonymously, what their salaries were."

"We found that 80 percent were in the bottom one-third of the salary scale, even though some of these people had been here eight or ten years." We suspected that most merit salary increases were no more than the usual cost-of-living increases. Also we found almost no advancement through the ranks.

The present salary structure in ten grades and classification titles, starts with a minimum of $5,000 a year-maximum $6,550, for the bottom, Grade 1 "open" classification.

Moving up the grades, a senior library shelver, keypunch operator or offset film stripper (Grade 4) would receive a minimum of $6,040 to a maximum of $8,094.

In Grade 9, a restorer of rare books and manuscripts, a senior art cataloguer, an assistant to the curator of manuscripts would receive a minimum of $8,275 to a maximum of $11,502. The top grade-- office co-ordinator-- ranges from $8,813 to $12,338.

Grievances Aired. Early in January, 1974, Mr. Reed and the University's librarian William Dix, invited the task force to meet and talk over grievances. As a result of the two hour meeting, the University proposed to make a salary study.

"They were going to do it themselves," Ms. Diephouse recalls, "but by March, someone had convinced them an outside study would be better."

The outside firm, Robert Hayes and Associates, undertook a year-long study involving basic job descriptions all along the line-- a full-scale professional survey, which is now complete.

"We tried to communicate with the library staff all along," Mr. Reed explains. "They didn't believe the Hayes study would benefit them, but we DID make salaries competitive where they weren't before. Some were competitive already, but as a result of the Hayes study, there will be a 10-15 percent increase."

Fringe benefits offered by the University are a one-month vacation after one year of unemployment, and retirement and medical benefits, all paid for by the University except that the individual employee must pay for family medical coverage.

supervisory problems were also part of our grievance," Ms. Diephouse says. "Back in the '40s, there was a library staff association of professionals and non-professionals. It had some say, but its powers were removed little by little by personnel and now it's just social."

"For example, some library staff workers worked on the Hayes study, but they were chosen by the University, not elected. At the hearing in April, only University-selected library staff were used."

Mr. Reed, Dr. Dix, lawyers from Morgan, Lewis and Bokius, the University's Philadelphia law firm, and representatives of Hayes Associates testified at the NLRB hearing. According to Mr. Reed, the NLRB can either refuse the University's appeal, hear the appeal and sustain its own regional office, or agree with the University that the library by itself is not an "appropriate" unit.

"The University feels it does work closely with the staff and with individuals," Mr. Reed says, "the introduction of outside third parties will not be beneficial to the staff, to students or to the administration."

Both Mr. Reed and Ms. Diephouse say that, so far as they know, no other University workers plan to unionize.

Zoning Board Decision Backs Opinions of Bank Street Residents; Approval Given Lahiere's Restaurant Plans for Major Expansion

In decisions last week, the Borough Zoning Board approved a 62-seat expansion by Lahiere's Restaurant; the conversion of a single-family home on Wiggins Street to four apartments; upheld an interpretation by zoning officer Donald Harney concerning the unfinished building at 363 Nassau Street; and denied an application to convert a home at 32 Bank Street into two apartments.

The latter case drew the greatest opposition from the audience. In denying the applicant, First National Bank of Princeton as trustee for the property under the will of Morris Kammerman, the board ruled that the three required off-street parking spaces— a condition that attorney W. Douglas Smith told the board could not be met by any property in the area— had to be considered a factor. The board found further that the applicant had failed to show that the approved single-family use was inappropriate.

Actually, the property has been used as a two-family dwelling for perhaps 30 years or more. Mr. Smith read an affidavit from a former tenant who rented the one floor in 1946-47, who he said was believed to be the initial renter. Mrs. Regina Herrman, trust officer for the bank, said that the property was presented for sale as a two-family dwelling and assumed by everyone connected in sale transactions to be a two-family home.

The contract purchaser for the property— subject to zoning approval— was identified by attorney Gordon Strauss, his representative at the meeting, as J. Seward Johnson, a Princeton sculptor.

Wanted as Residence. Mr. Johnson, who maintains a studio on Route 1, wanted the property, Mr. Strauss said, as a temporary home for students studying with him. It would be totally residential, he said; there would be no commercial activity on the premises.

"We were under the impression it was a valid two-family dwelling. But like many properties in Princeton, a "bootleg apartment" was installed somehow over the years contrary to the zoning ordinance.

We Protest. Just prior to the start of the meeting the zoning board was handed a petition listing 18 Bank Street names objecting to the application. They requested the home be designated as a one-family dwelling.

Michael Burns, 20 Bank Street, saw the unique Baltimore Row Houses on the street as "...the last echo of a nice residential street in a nice community close to Princeton University."

"What consideration," he asked, "will transient students of Mr. Johnson have for the life style of Bank Street?"

Rita McCloskey, 21 Bank, who identified herself as a lifelong resident of the street, told the board "Bank Street is coming back to what it used to be. It is unique. It would be nice to have it return to families." A survey revealed that 15 homes on the street were single-family, 10 multi-family.

A young housewife, Mrs. Patricia Lombardo, 16 Bank, pointed out that although the homes were in close proximity to each other, "we all get along with one another. Community feeling is important to us. I think the board should give some consideration to how the residents feel about the application. We're doing our best to make it the lively, charming street it once was.

"I go back to 1913," said John Servis who told the board he owned property at 24 and 26 Bank, "and I've never seen Bank Street in better condition. It would be a shame to punish these residents any more. Anything that would generate more traffic and nuisance on Bank Street I think would be a crime."

John Servis who told the board he owned property at 24 and 26 Bank, "and I've never seen Bank Street in better condition. It would be a shame to punish these residents any more. Anything that would generate more traffic and nuisance on Bank Street I think would be a crime."

We'll Be Back. William C. Baggett, attorney for owners of the unfinished building at 363 Nassau Street, told the board he was present only because the Planning Board will not proceed with any application that has an interpretive question attached to it that has not been resolved.

"Our presentation will be limited to the ruling by the zoning officer," he said, "that the entire first floor (of 363 Nassau) cannot be used for retail." He assured the board that "regardless of the determination of the board tonight we'll be back in July."

The owner, 146 Dundas Corp. of Florida, not only hopes to use the entire first floor for retail but to add an additional two stories.

Mr. Baggett admitted that the different viewpoints held by his client and Mr. Harney "is a legal argument." At issue is slightly more than half of the first floor which, under the original plans, was to be used for parking. However, Mr. Baggitt told the board that changes have allowed machinery to be moved on the roof and the parking to be relocated underground, freeing the entire first-floor area.

Mr. Harney ruled that the building was located in a residential-office zone where retail is not a permitted use. But the building was begun under the old zoning ordinance in a B-2 zone which permitted business use.

Court Order Issued. Meantime, the Borough and the owner went to court. Mr. Baggitt said that Judge Kingfield settled the question once and forever when he specifically ordered the building officer and zoning officer to reinstate the original building permit.

Judge Frank Kingfield, he stated, said that B-2 zoning applies to that property and if applies to that property, it certainly applies to the first floor. He based his decision on the building permit, not on actual plans, Mr. Baggitt contended.

There was one area of agreement on both sides: owners and neighbors want to see the building completed. Dr. Alfred S. Cook Jr., 361 Nassau Street, commented, "we do want to see the building finished but as originally planned. We feel this (retail expansion) is definitely against the original plan."

Mr. Baggitt promised more "open communication" between owners and neighbors, many of whom are opposed to any extra floors, between now and the board's next meeting.

Conversion Approved. Katherine Ness, 5 Overbrook Drive, received a conditional use authorization to convert a single family property at 46 Wiggins Street she had purchased June 16 to four apartments. Four apartments are permitted in an R-4 zone in which the home is located.

The previous owner, Alan Lopez, had, in 1972, received permission from the zoning board to convert the property to three apartments. However, Mr. Lopez never went ahead with the conversion.

The lone member from the audience to speak on the application was Emily Lambert, who told the board she had moved to 45 Wiggins four weeks ago because she wanted to live in the center of Princeton.

"I was under the impression," she said, "there was a mix on Wiggins between young and old, multi-family and single family. She had only been moved in a few days, Ms. Lambert told the board, "when I read in TOWN TOPICS there was a drug raid at 28½ Wiggins."

While I'm growing children, they're growing marijuana."

Yes to Lahiere's. "The ultimate question the board must answer is can we or not, in the light of changed parking spaces in the Borough, be given a waiver of 12 off-street parking spaces?"

That, said attorney Bruce French, was the central issue in the application of Lahiere's Restaurant for a parking waiver that would permit it to add 62 seats in a proposed expansion into 13 Witherspoon Street presently occupied by the Nassau Barber Shop.

Citing "impressive vacancies" in a recent off-street parking survey conducted by the Borough, Mr. French stated: "I think all of us are amazed at the availability of parking now, especially in the evening." Many of Lahiere's customers are those who are already parked, and who walk there to

He pointed out that the Witherspoon, Tulane Street West and Palmer Square East lots were all within 400 feet of the restaurant.

"In light of direct competition of a 232-seat restaurant approved by the board last month and the 'frozen position' of my client in the last 10 years, we feel it would be equitable for the board to grant the variance," Mr. French summed up.

OFF DUTY
Taxis Won't Bid. None of Princeton's taxi-drivers have submitted a bid to provide taxi service for the elderly. For a minute, at Township Committee's Monday night meeting, it looked as though a last-minute bid had arrived when Township Police Officer David Cromwell strode into the meeting room and hand-delivered an envelope to Administrator Joseph R. Nini.

It was from A-1 Able Taxi Service's Stella Fasanella. But it wasn't a bid at all, only an explanation of why Able wasn't bidding.

Too much book-keeping to maintain separate records of mileages for seniors and for standard customers (for calculation of gasoline costs); two seniors riding in the same cab should each pay because cab drivers would have to help them in and out of the cab and handle packages and two are twice one when services like these must be rendered.

Also, the zone fare set-up isn't fair, Able said, asking rhetorically, who would absorb the extra mileage?

"I think something could still be worked out," Mrs. Fasanella said the next day.

But Borough Mayor Robert

Cleveland Lane Home Yields Jewelry, Silver Worth $65,000

Jewelry and silver totalling $65,000 were stolen last week from a home on Cleveland Lane.

Among the more than a dozen pieces of jewelry taken were a $14,000 platinum brooch, $10,000 platinum ring and $4500 platinum bracelet. The house was not ransacked.

According to Chief Michael Carnevale, the police investigation has determined the robbery took place between 6:15 p.m. Friday and 1:30 Saturday morning, when the owner returned. She found a door knob had been knocked off the rear door and the door forced open.

The home has an alarm system connected to police headquarters, but Chief Carnevale said that for some reason the alarm did not sound. Servicemen from the alarm company have been at

W. Cawley disagrees.

"We're back to something like the original Crosstown '62," he told his Tuesday press conference. "Maybe a rented or purchased car with a driver. Doing it on the cheap, if we possibly can."

The mayor observed that the Fasanellas were involved in developing the ordinance and wondered why their objections hadn't been raised then.

"If the taxi industry comes in with a specific proposal, that's the only way we can go on talking with them," he said.

"We won't let the matter drop just because there aren't any bids," declared Township the scene, he said, and reported the system was working properly.

"We are not overlooking any possibility," said Chief Carnevale. "It is possible," he said, "that someone had a key to silence the alarm."

Sgt. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Kerry Klink made the initial investigation, assisted by Det. Charles Harris who dusted for fingerprints. Lt. John Bellow and Det. Timothy Huizing have been put in charge of the continuing investigation.

A complete inventory of the missing jewelry and silver flatware has been made by the victim. Saying he had not checked any records, Chief Carnevale said, that he would imagine the value of the stolen articles had to rank near the top of past burglaries in the Borough.

Committee member William Sutphin.

From the sparse audience, Mrs. Jean Greenberg, 99 Ridgeview Circle, suggested asking local car dealers if they'd contribute a car, the way they do for high school drivers' education. She volunteered to take on the job.

NEW SYSTEM AVAILABLE

For Theft Protection. In the wake of a $65,000 burglary last week in the Borough, it should prove comforting to home owners and businessmen that Borough police have just installed a new, sophisticated alarm system.

Called the Varitech Alarm Detecting and Supporting System, it has a capability of 999 alarms - more than six times the 150 maximum that the borough was able to monitor in the past. For all practical purposes, this will handle the needs of the Borough forever, said Chief Michael Carnevale.

The $13,000 computerized system was installed -- at no cost to the Borough taxpayer -- by Automatic Communications Equipment Co. of Somerville. The Somerville firm charges users a hook-up fee and a monthly rental.

It is in operation now. Chief Carnevale said that only seven other police departments in the entire state have the Varitech. The same system, he said, is used at Kennedy Airport, to monitor all the alarms in that huge complex.

The machine provides a read-out on tape of the date, time, location and condition of each alarm. All the desk officer need do is look at the system and broadcast the number that appears.

Previously, Borough police had three panels with a capacity of 50 alarms each. "We were at our maximum; there was no way to expand and still maintain the console design concept we had when we moved in," said Chief Carnevale.

"There was a waiting list all the time. Everyone knew we were filled up and it deterred others from getting on the list."

When he learned of the Varitech system, Chief Carnevale reported that he arranged for a demonstration. "We were overly impressed," he said.

attempt to enter the Princeton Youth Center on Witherspoon Street.

Police received a call at 12:35 last Wednesday morning reporting the sound of breaking glass, and Det. Thomas Procaccino and Ptl. Kerry Klink found fresh blood stains near a broken window in a rear door.

Ptl. William Hunter, who also responded, caught a glimpse of a suspect running on Green Street but he was unable to catch him. Police took blood samples and dusted for fingerprints. The building was not entered.

In another entry, this one between 12:30 and 2:18 Thursday morning in a Bayard Lane home, a $300 stereo receiver, $35 wrist-watch and a wallet containing $20 were stolen, police said, while the occupants were asleep. Entry was through an eastside window.

When Michael J. Mills, 134 Alexander Street, arrived home at 1 p.m. last week and opened the front door, he found a stereo receiver and television combination on the living room floor.

He evidently scared the intruder away, said Chief Frederick Porter. He had forced a bathroom screen and window to get inside. Ptl. Peter Savalli investigated.

TWO JUVENILES TARGET

OF DRUG RIPOFF. Two teenage boys, 15 and 16, one from Princeton, the other from Montgomery Township, were victims Thursday of what Chief Michael Carnevale called a "drug ripoff." "It was a classic set up," he said. Det. Timothy Huizing has continued the investigation and Chief Carnevale reports that warrants have been issued for the arrest of three Princeton suspects.

The teenagers were waiting for a New York bus on Nassau Street around 5:45 when a young man approached and asked if they had seen a certain individual, indicating he was holding something for him. "It was obviously

Plans For July 4 Listed

Princeton's celebration of the Fourth of July will start at 10:30 Friday when Colonel Kemble Widner will conduct a tour of the battlefield and describe the battle in detail. The Princeton Battlefield Area Preservation Society will raise a replica of the blue ensign flag which, it is believed, General Washington's troops carried into the battle.

Community Park will be the scene for Community Picnic Day. Residents are invited to bring their lunches, blankets, chairs and enjoy the many outdoor activities available at the park. Tennis enthusiasts are asked to reserve time by signing up Thursday.

Softball, bocce and horseshoes will be available, and the playground will be open to the children. There will be a charge for swimming.

drugs," said Chief Carnevale, in explaining how the slim-flammer works.

The kids say, "Hey, can we get some?" "Sure. If you have $10, come with me," the slim-flammer replies. They followed him down Witherspoon Street to a nearby alley.

At that point, two other young men appear, continues Chief Carnevale, station themselves as lookouts and the slim-flammer pulls out identification saying he is a narco officer. He gives the victims two choices: immediate arrest or the rest of their money. It's obvious they've been ripped off, commented Chief Carnevale, because the alleged ID turns out to be a sheriff's card from another state. Undeterred, the slim-flammer insists he has jurisdiction in New Jersey. The youths handed over $30.

CYCLIST, CAR COLLIDE

AT SHOPPING CENTER. Stevenson Nathan, 12, 32 Witherspoon Lane, was thrown to the ground Friday when his bicycle collided with the side of a car at the Princeton Shopping Center.

Young Nathan was treated at Princeton Medical Center for contusions and abrasions of the knee.

There were no charges against the driver, Laura L. Panicaro, 26 Spruce Street. The youth told police that someone had called to him from behind and he turned to see who called as he was exiting from the mall. Ptl. Mario Musso investigated.

One passenger was injured and both drivers were charged following a collision Saturday evening on Route 206 near Edgerstoune.

Police said that Valerie J. Tarr, 18, of Trenton, was driving during a thunderstorm and as she braked to go around a curve, her car began to hydroplane. It slid sideways into the side of a car driven by Geraldine Taylor, 47, South Ozone Park, N.Y.

A passenger in the Tarr car, Mary Apostolaros, 18, sustained a fracture of the knee. Miss Tarr was ticketed for careless driving; Ms. Taylor for leaving the scene of an accident.

William Potts, the investigating officer, noted that that particular section of Route 206 has a history of hydroplaning.

In the Borough last week, Daniel B. Thompson, 21, 28 Dempsey Avenue, received a laceration of the head when he was involved in a mishap at the intersection of Franklin Avenue and Jefferson Road.

His car was struck on the side by one operated by William S. Heckscher, 70, 32 Wilton Street, whom police charged with disregarding a stop sign. Mr. Heckscher was driving south on Jefferson. It was raining at the time.

MEDVIN RECUPERATING From Brief Seizure. "I'm feeling great," said Borough Council member (and Borough Fire Commissioner)
Murray Medvin Tuesday, a scant four days after he became ill at last Friday's annual fire company inspection.

Mr. Medvin explained that he did not have a heart attack.
"The problem was pulmonary edema, and a heart unable to pump out the excess water." He said that he does have a medical history of heart problems.

"Too many hours on the Planning Board— that's what my doctor told me, and he says shorter hours, or else!"

It was at the end of the parade, and Fire Commissioner Medvin was shaking hands with the firefighters as they stood in line outside Borough Hall. Feeling unwell, he moved out of line to the grassy side of the battle monument, where he was joined by his anxious wife.

Princeton's First Aid and Rescue Squad was on hand for the parade, and its members took Mr. Medvin to the Medical Center. For a time the Councilman was in the coronary care unit, but that was only a brief stay.

"You know, I gave a talk to the fire companies, and commented on Hannah

wouldn't have had a quorum.
Mr. McGoldrick replaces Jan
Schneier on the board.

Council also named Harris
Barnet, of Queenston Commons, to the Traffic Safety Committee. Mr. Barnet is a former Township resident.

REFERENDUM SOUGHT

On Windsor Municipal Building. One petition is circulating in West Windsor Township to have a public referendum on a committee-approved $1.7 million municipal building, and another to force the resignation of Mayor G.
Richard Walter and his fellow Republican committeeman Myles Redmond.

Mrs. William Sherwin of South Lane who is spearheading the drive contends that the Republican mayor is willing to support a new municipal complex no matter what the cost and over large-scale citizen opposition.
Mrs. Sherwin's group has until Tuesday to secure signatures representing 10 percent of the population or $13 million of local assessed property values, the requirement for holding the referendum. Mrs.
Sherwin successfully guided an earlier petition drive which resulted in committee abandoning its plans to erect the municipal building at a cost of $2.1 million.

"When I got to the Medical Center, of course, who was lifting me up? All their women nurses!"

Mr. Medvin expects to be out of municipal action for about ten days. Borough
Mayor Robert Cawley said Tuesday that he misses the absent Council member, and across the municipal line, Township Committee passed a speedy-recovery resolution.

RENT LAW INTRODUCED

In Borough, landlords will be allowed to pass along to tenants the cost of capital improvements under the new rent-leveelling ordinance introduced Thursday night by Borough Council.

The measure, if it passes
after public hearing Tuesday, July 8, will extend for another two years the present ordinance passed in 1973.
Council's vote was 5-0; Joseph
P. Moore absent.

Also at Thursday's special meeting, Council introduced an amendment to the site plan review ordinance specifying that any building plans now pending will come under former site plan procedures, not under the new ordinance.
The only project affected is the plan of Timothy Sheehan to add more floors to the 363
Nassau building.

The rent law will allow landlords who have made improvements to increase rent by 1½ percent of the total improvement, provided that
percent of the existing rent.
Landlords who have done the work themselves may ask for a determination of the fair market value of what they've done, and base a rent increase on that figure. Under the current ordinance, landlords can only pass along part of the costs of building materials for do-it-yourself projects.

The present law links rent increases to the Consumer Price Index. The new ordinance modifies the way the CPI is used in calculating increases.

The new rent law also allows landlords a "reasonable"
return on their investments.
At present, landlords seeking relief in hardship cases are allowed to raise rents only enough to balance income against expenses.

A seven-member board will oversee the new rent law. The present board consists of only five members. The seven will comprise two landlords, two tenants and three citizens who are neither.

CHAMPAGNE AND ROSES for Georgine Freedman, who stars in Summer Intime's first production opening this Thursday. Joe Harbeson is the bellboy.

News Of The THEATRES

"OH, DAD....!"

Father's Day is Past. Mme. Rosepette is a domineering mother, Jonathan a submissive son. In "Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mamma's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling so Sad," Georgine Freedman is one, Eric Zwemer the other and Murray Theatre the milieu. It's Summer Intime's production, opening this Thursday at 8:30 and playing Friday and Saturday, also at 8:30, and Sunday at 7:30. It will also run July 10, 11, 12 and 13.

Arthur Kopit's play was first produced at Harvard when he was an undergraduate there. It was presented to Broadway audiences in 1962, and was treated to an Intime production some years back.

The setting for the play is a Havana hotel. Mme. Rosepette encounters Commodore Roseabove, an aging roue (Herbert McAneny), and shares with him a delightful moonlit evening which turns out to be something less than delightful.

Meanwhile, Jonathan has met a teen-age babysitter (Kimberly Myers) who "befriends" him. She learns, as the play moves along, the consequences of trying to break the grip Mme. R. has on her son. The audience finds "Oh, Dad!" a mix of Feydeau farce and bitter Albee.

Parents, by the way, should be warned that the title of the play and its description as a comedy, do not mean that it's for the kiddies. They will be happier at home.

In "Bedazzled," the devil bargains for the soul of a short-order cook, using the Seven Deadly Sins (Raquel Welch is Lust) as allies.

On Tuesday, it will be the black farce, "Comedy of Terrors" about two impoverished undertakers. The cast alone is enough to provoke hysterical laughter: Vincent Price, Peter Lorre, Boris Karloff and Basil Rathbone.

Wednesday's screening will be "The Lady Vanishes," vintage Hitchcock about the lady who disappears from a moving train. Michael Redgrave, Paul Lukas and Margaret Lockwood are involved.

MIDNIGHT....

Is Cabaret Time. The 1975 season for Summer Intime's Midnight Cabaret will open this Saturday, with a day-late salute to the Fourth called "Tribute to American Composers."

The cabaret is in the Lower Room next to Murray Theatre. It will be open at midnight every Saturday through August 23 for $2 admission. Refreshments will be on hand. Tickets may be bought in advance at intermission time during all Summer Intime plays.

The "Tribute" will include songs like "Fascinating Rhythm," "Brush Up on Your Shakespeare," and "My Funny Valentine" by such composers as Irving Berlin, George and Ira Gershwin, Stephen Sondheim, Cole Porter and Harold Arlen.

Entertainers will be Eric Zwemer, Joseph Harbeson, Jim Shankman, D'Arcy Achziger, Ellen Efrig, and Denise Scutter. Bob Cohen will accompany.

COME TO THE CABARET

At Nassau Inn, Comedy, tap-dancing, a lot of music and some flag-waving-- although not all at the same time-- are promised for the Fourth of July at the new Inn Cabaret in the Ships Room of the Nassau Inn.

This Friday, of course, with performances at 9:30 and 11:30 p.m. Doors open half an hour before each show and seating is limited, so get there in time. Tickets are $2, and will be sold first come-first served. Bar service will be available.

Performers are working on a medley of songs by George M. Cohan (that's the flag-waving part), a musical-comedy sketch about Betsy Ross (ditto, probably) and an installment of "Great Works of Literature Set to Music," which could be anything.

Don Boroson, pianist when Inn Cabaret previewed two weeks ago, will lead the music once again. He'll have Steve Fillo on bass. Other performers will be Roo Brown, Liz Fillo, Joan Gallos, Mike Schnessel, Reid White and Laird White. Joan Morton Lucas is the choreographer and Dan Berkowitz is directing.

"GUYS 'N...."

At Washington Crossing, it'll be "Guys and Dolls" this Fourth of July weekend at the Open Air Theatre, Washington Crossing State Park. The Frank Loesser musical will open this Thursday at 8:30 p.m., and will play Friday and Saturday with repeats next Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Loesser's heroine, Miss Adelaide, will be Colleen Smith. Mike Grinnals will play Nathan Detroit and Allan Salkin will be Sky Masterson. Others in the cast are Marti Goebles, Warren Raymond and Stuart Mindlin, Robert Watson, Gary Loveman, Sue Humphreys and John Hudleson.

Jack M. Rees and Warren Raymond are in charge of production for The Pennington Players, whose show it is. Bob Sine is musical director, Lila Howley is choreographer, Sara Mathews has done the costumes (and is serving as manager) and Laura Raymond is property chairman.

MASTER CLASS
And Organ Recitals. Organ Masterclass week at Westminster Choir College will open Sunday at 8 p.m. with an organ recital by Bernard Lagace, noted young Canadian organist. Mr. Lagace will play at the Lawrenceville School.

Tickets, at $3, will be on sale at the door or may be purchased.

The organist will play works by Scheidt, Sweelinck, J. S. Bach and Vierne. A specialist in Baroque music, Mr. Lagace is well known for his interpretations of Bach.

Next Tuesday and Wednesday, Joan Lippincott and Donald McDonald will give organ recitals in the Westminster Casavant Recital Hall. Ms. Lippincott, head of Westminster's organ department and director of the Masterclass week, will play on Tuesday, and Mr. McDonald on Wednesday.

Each performer will also hold master classes for workshop participants. Catharine Crozier and Harold Gleason, organ teachers from San Diego, will give classes also.

Katherine Barry
AS SHE LIKES IT

In Role of Celia, Katherine Barry, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. Y. Barry, 193 Elm Road, will play Celia in the Washington Crossing Park Park production of Shakespeare's "As You Like It," due in the Park on July 31. She is also working for McCarter Theatre this summer.

A graduate of Phillips Academy in Andover, Ms. Barry attended Princeton Day School and Abbott Academy. She has just completed her first year at Northwestern University as a theatre major.

DANCERS SELECTED
By Ballet Society. Eighty ballet and modern dancers from 15 dance schools in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania auditioned for acceptance in the Princeton Regional Ballet Company this year.

The ballet auditions were conducted and judged by Barbara Sandonato and Alexa Yudovich, principal dancers of The Pennsylvania Ballet. Twelve new members for the senior company (15 and up) plus seven senior apprentices were selected. Seven dancers, 12 through 14, were chosen for the junior company, while eight attained junior apprentice status.

Marcus Schukind, who has danced with various leading American modern companies and the Batsheva Dance Company of Israel, conducted and judged the modern dance auditions. He selected eight dancers for the senior modern company, ten as senior apprentices and two for the junior company.

The Princeton Regional Ballet, founded in 1963 by Audree Estey, artistic director and founder-director of the Princeton Ballet Society, which maintains the company, had its busiest season ever during 1974-75, capped by six performances of a new production of Prokofiev's "Cinderella" at the Garden State Arts Center in Holmdel and appearances at the Northeast Regional Ballet Association's annual dance festival in Toronto, Canada, in June.

Dancers accepted in the Princeton Regional Ballet from this area include Betsy Guerin, Rhonda Click, J. Mark Edenfield, Cheryl Hendrickson, Christina Carter, Gretchen Good, Randa Shahbender, Madeleine Watson, Jill Bonin, Sarah McPhee, Eve Murto, Kathy Nelson, Susannah Robins, Dana Miller, Doreen D'Ippolito, Gabriella Kiss and Sharon Soffen, all of Princeton.

Also, Shirin Stave and Valery Stults, Cranbury; Pierrette Newman, Michele Newman, Susan Keats and

Elizabeth Will, Lawrenceville; Martha Young and Sarah Burchfield, Hopewell; Denise Kendall, Princeton Junction; Andrea Juris, Kendall Park; and Vicki Bilenker and Martha Curtis, Princeton University.

All the B vitamins (thiamin, niacin, pyridoxin, para-aminobenzoic acid, folic acid) are very essential to the formation of healthy red blood cells. In particular, a lack of folic acid and of the vitamin B 12 appears to be what causes pernicious anemia. This type of anemia is closely connected with decreased functioning of the liver. It was the American scientist George Minot who discovered this connection, and found that the blood vessels become saturated with immature blood cells from the bone marrow.

THAT BIG BAND SOUND: You'll hear it next Thursday, July 10, when Steve Redfield's Big Band (that's Redfield on trumpet) gives a 7:30 p.m. concert in Battlefield Park. It's next in Princeton's Summer Sounds, which has already offered Dixieland and will, with Redfield's Big Band, present such good oldies as "I Get a Kick Out of You," "Pennies from Heaven," "Basie, Straight Ahead"...you know. That's Keith Herzog on trombone. All Big Band musicians are alumni of PHS's Symphonette Band.

being directed by Debbie Bellow, assisted by Stage Manager Paul Berkhammer. Crew heads include Debbie Pehta, costumes, Adrienne Brockway, set design and construction; Jill Kendall, props; Paul Berkhammer, lights, sound design and execution; and Eden Stern, house.

Street Theatre's next workshop will be Silkscreen Design, directed by Adrienne Brockway. Participants will design and print posters for this summer's productions. Registration is now being taken.

Anyone who has any old furniture to donate or loan will be of assistance to the theatre. Call the Street Theatre office, 921-8750.

AUDITION...

Adults and Children. "If You've Seen One Dragon...", a play described as "a family reunion of our favorite friends of extinction," will be presented around central New Jersey during the summer, and auditions will be held next Wednesday and Thursday, July 9 and 10, in the studio of Creative Theatre Unlimited, 33 Mercer Street, Princeton. (That's Trinity Church).

Creative Theatre Unlimited has a new Children's Theatre Company which is producing "If You've Seen," and the group wants both adult and child actors for the production.

Singers, dancers and musicians are invited, too, and a special call has gone out for "technical assistance in the area of costumes, props and set construction." Anyone who knows how to construct fire-breathing apparatus will be particularly welcome.

Rehearsals for the play have been scheduled for weekday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30. Rehearsals are now under way for "You, Alice and Me," an original adaptation of "Alice in Wonderland" and other books of fantasy. Both productions are available for performances at day camps, recreation programs and schools. Additional information may be obtained from Creative Theatre Unlimited, 924-3489.

"SWEET CHARITY"

At Peddie. "Sweet Charity," the 1966 musical, will be presented next weekend by Theatre-by-the-Lake, the indoor theatre on the campus of Peddie School, Hightstown. It will open next Thursday, July 10, and will play Friday and Saturday, at 8:30 each night.

Dick LaRossa is directing, and Francis A. Towne is providing musical direction. Sandie Savoy is in charge of choreography, Ron Brockway is constructing sets and Paul Faloon is lighting director.

"Sweet Charity," in which Gwen Verdon starred, is the one about the hostess in the Fandango Ballroom who runs around New York looking for men, love and a new job. Songs include "If My Friends Could See Me Now" and "Hey, Big Spender."

PRINCE

The Fortune. Despite the powerhouse talents of Warren Beatty and Jack Nicholson, the direction of Mike Nichols and one of the most engaging young comedians to surface in some time, "The Fortune" is amusing but uninspired.

Beatty and Nicholson are two bumbling con men out to fleece an heiress in this 1920 comedy, but the expected chemistry between the would-be smoothies never really materializes. Instead it is Stockard Channing who virtually steals the act with her engaging portrait of a slightly daffy, all-too-trusting rich girl, heiress to a napkin empire.

In trying to do away with Ms. Channing after she has announced that she intends to give away her fortune to charity, Beatty and Nicholson are closer to vintage Laurel and Hardy than anything else. They first try drowning her in a bird bath after plying her with booze; then decide to use a rattlesnake-- which is promptly killed by Ms. Channing's pet chicken-- and put her out sea in a large trunk in a final effort.

Physically and stylishly, the film effectively uses the conventions of old-time comedy, playing everything from the Mann Act to murder for laughs. Unfortunately, though, it has some wonderful moments, it never soars.

Nichols never allows Beatty and Nicholson the necessary charm to keep the audience's sympathy on their side. An entertaining comedy in spots, yes... but with all that talent one still feels the twinge of what might have been.

Environment Ignored.

To the Editor of Town Topics:
Before the Yedlin project is irrevocably approved, the findings of the Township Environmental Commission ought to be given more consideration than they received during the recent hearings.

Those of us who live in the area know that the Commission's report ought not to be termed "vague." The drainage problem below Ewing Street is already difficult enough.

Geologist Erling Dorf's warning about erosion can be substantiated by anyone who wades through our backyards during heavy rains. Then a coursing brook in process of forming a channel can be seen in action. What will happen when water cascades down from the Yedlin project?

If you want a "vague" statement, this will do: "Drainage is a major concern but it's not a thing that can't be managed." (Mrs. Gottlieb) What does "managed" mean in this context? Or again: "I don't see much evidence for the Commission's view that the site 'cannot support the project.'" (Mayor Bleiman) Surely the drainage is evidence enough.

The loss of soil and trees will cause a devastating effect on the area. It is hard for us who live with the problem to understand why the professional opinion of the Township Commission must be dismissed in so summary a fashion. The powers that be ought to take a closer look before they approve a regional disaster.

Editor, Town Topics:
Within three days after last week's papers reached the readers, 24 persons had called the Council of Community Services to volunteer their help with Telephone Reassurance.

Thank you for printing the article, "Service Which Checks Daily by Telephone on Those Who Live Alone Seeks Volunteers." It is making phones ring all over the area to give persons living alone the security of knowing that someone is checking on their safety and well-being.

lose the warm weather building season, he explained. Construction is scheduled to begin in October, with September, 1977, as the projected completion date.

Mrs. Sherwin counters that the referendum, if held, would not affect the building cost but merely give the electorate a chance to decide on whether they want the building.

Mr. Redmond was singled out for forced resignation along with Mayor Walter because he has strongly lobbied for the building. Committeemen Alan Stutz, Raymond Lockhart and William Royal were not included. Mrs. Sherwin explained, because Mr. Stutz is resigning; Mr. Lockhart, she believes, will be defeated in a re-election bid, and Mr. Royal is independent.

Mr. Redmond said he would consider the resignation issue when confronted with the petition.

THEFT REPORT

Tape Player, Tapes Stolen. A cassette tape player valued at $159 and 25 tapes valued at $150 were stolen between 7:30 and 10:30 Thursday evening from a car parked in a lot at 199 Nassau Street. Police said that the victim lived nearby.

A green lounge chair valued at $40 was taken the same evening from the front porch of a Mershon Drive home, and a nurse lost $15 to $20 when her blue leather wallet was stolen Friday at the Princeton Medical Center. Police said it had been left hanging on a door in the ear, nose and throat clinic.

A hand computer valued at $227.40 was removed from a first-floor office at Frick Lab on the University campus — police report no forced entry — and a Levittown, Pa. resident was victimized when his car parked on William Street was forced open.

Taken, police said, were a portable radio ($30), pocket calculator ($30) and a briefcase containing drafting equipment worth $150. Det. Charles Harris dusted for fingerprints but the results were negative.

In the Township, a visitor from Muncie, Ind., lost a 35mm camera valued at $130 which was taken from his

Miss Florence H. Snow, 92, of the Great Road, died June 20 at her home. Born in Franklin, Mass., she moved to Princeton 20 years ago. Miss Snow, who was graduated from Smith College in Northampton, Mass. in 1904, spent much of her life involved with the college. She served as the first general secretary of the alumnae association for 18 years and was the first general president of the American Alumni Council. She was also formerly a free-lance photographer, publishing her pictures in national publications and exhibiting in gallery shows.

There are no immediate survivors.

A memorial service was held at the Mather Funeral Home. Memorial contributions may be made to the Smith College Alumnae Association.

Edward R. Bastedo, 63, 118 Birch Avenue, died June 26 at Princeton Medical Center. He was a retired Princeton Township Road Department employee.

Mr. Bastedo was a lifelong area resident, an army veteran of World War II and a member of American Legion Post No. 339 of Hopewell.

locked car, parked in the Princeton Shopping Center. The theft took place between 10 and 10:30 Friday morning.

Janet Larch, Princeton Arms, Cranbury, left her pocketbook on the grass next to a court while she was playing tennis last week at Community Park. When she returned a half-hour later, her wallet containing $40 was gone.

A 12-volt battery worth $38 was removed last week from an Avis rental car parked at the Stefanelli Service Station on Bayard Lane. Carmen Stefanelli told police that he noticed the hood of the car partially up when he arrived at 6:45 in the morning.

A maroon Cranbury National Bank bag containing $23 was stolen Thursday evening from a milk delivery truck.

The driver, Robert Prickett of Plainsboro, told police that he left his truck to make a delivery to a store on the corner of John Street. When he reached his next stop on Leigh Avenue, he noticed that the bag was missing from a small cabinet in front of the truck.

ONE AGAINST ALL

In Chess Exhibition. Michael Wilder, a twelve-year old 8th grade Princeton student, will simultaneously play all challengers in a Chess Exhibition at the YMCA on Tuesday at 7:30.

A member of the YMCA Chess Club, Michael currently holds the highest national ranking of any player under 13. He plays frequently in tournaments and currently is competing in the World Open in New York.

All comers are welcome Tuesday evening to play, and are asked to bring a standard set and board. The YMCA Chess Club meets year round each Tuesday, and welcomes guests and new members.

HOT LINE EXTENDED
Throughout Mercer County. The Family Service Agency has announced the extension of its "Hot Line" service to answer calls from troubled persons to all of Mercer County.

Sixty volunteers, known as the Mercer County Contact Ministry, have been recruited to man the telephones on a 24-hour basis.

These volunteers have been involved in a broad and intensive training program led by representatives from a variety of mental health facilities in Mercer County. Paul Kurland, Executive Director of Family Service, gave a presentation on "Interpersonal Relationships" to the group as part of the training program.

BIKEPATHS NEED MONEY
From State. A resolution adding $5,000 to the June 16 bike path resolution was passed Monday night by Township Committee. The $115,000 originally requested is short by $5,000 because the Township forgot to calculate the cost of outside engineering services. The amount of these services is estimated at $10,000, but the Township itself will pay half.

Committee introduced an amendment to the new site plan review ordinance. It exempts applications made prior to passage of the new law. Public hearing July 21.

The Township collected $501.50 from its recent bike auction. It will go into the general fund and thereby ease the tax load.

AWARD NO. 18

For Nassau Conover, Nassau Conover Motor Company, Route 206 and Cherry Valley Road, is one of 42 Ford dealerships in the Philadelphia sales district that has been recognized for outstanding achievement during 1974.

Nassau-Conover and its president, George W. Conover were awarded the Distinguished Achievement Award for the 18th year. Only five of the 42 Ford dealers have received the award more often.

The award is recognition that a dealer has consistently provided superior service to new and used truck owners in the past year. To receive the award, a dealer must be rated outstanding in every aspect of the business, a Ford official said.

AWARD WON
For Advertising Campaign. New Jersey National Bank has announced that its Full Circle Account advertising campaign featuring the Red Circle Boys has won an award for excellence in newspaper advertising. The advertising appeared in TOWN TOPICS and other papers during the past spring.

The Advertising Club of North Jersey is a member of the American Advertising Federation which annually sponsors the competition designed to recognize advertising which is effective and a credit to the advertising industry. The organization named New Jersey National first place winners in the category of "Newspaper Campaigns Using Color."

Walter Anderson, advertising director of the bank, said that "the cartoon format introduced two fictitious characters called Jones and J.W. The cartoon format allowed us to use more copy which was necessary in order to describe the package of banking services included in our Full Circle Account.

"To further improve the readability of the ad, we added a second color," Mr. Anderson stated. The campaign met its objective, to increase public awareness of the service and of the bank itself.

The same campaign is currently entered in the Bank Marketing Association's Golden Coin Awards Competition which recognizes excellence in advertising within the banking industry.

URKEN REMODELING: Urken Supply Company, 27 Witherspoon Street, which likes to advertise "Urken's Has Everything," has made it easier for its patrons to find what they want. Where once there were two aisles in the front half of the store, a third, middle aisle (above) has been added and adjacent shelves lowered. The result, says manager Ivy Urken: easier access to more items.

Mural Painters Sought

In its continuing effort to beautify Princeton, the Environmental Improvement Committee of the Chamber of Commerce would like to display a permanent outdoor mural for the enjoyment of the public. The owners of the Community Liquors Warehouse on Witherspoon Street have donated the side of their building, and the Chamber is seeking artists to submit sketches of an appropriate scene.

The sketches should be submitted to the Chamber office, 44 Nassau Street, no later than July 30 when they will be reviewed by a panel of judges. The winning artist will be given public recognition by Mayor Robert Cawley and will affix his signature to the mural which should be completed some time in early fall.

Two or more artists may combine their talents and do the painting as a group. For more information, call Ellen Hodges, Chamber of Commerce, 921-7676.

CLASSES TO CONTINUE
In July at PAA. Classes in painting, sculpture and printmaking will continue in July at the Princeton Art Association's studio at Ettr Farm, Rosedale Road.

A new approach to contemporary sculpture combining the study of natural forms with texture, line movement and composition will be taught by Jim Colavita in "Contemporary Sculpture." A sculpture class for young people, 11-15, will be taught by Pat Huckins, who will teach classical procedures using a model.

TEACHER AND ARTIST: Vincent Ceglia, Professor of Art at Mercer County Community College, will teach a class, "Painting in All Media," in July for the Princeton Art Association. Story this page.

Adolph Konrad will teach "Oil Painting, Landscape and Figure" for the more advanced painter to aid in the development of each artist's individual approach to painting. Also for the student with some experience will be Vincent Ceglia's class, "Painting in All Media." He will present a contemporary approach to oil, acrylic, watercolor, tempera, collage and pastel on a variety of surfaces.

Elizabeth Monath will involve beginners in a variety of media to try to develop latent talents in "It's Worth A Try," and for those just beginning the study of art there is an evening class by Laurence Greenber, "Beginning Steps in Oil and Acrylic Painting."

Marie Sturken will explore etching and colligraphy in both black and white and color painting in "Beginning Printmaking." For complete information on July classes, call the PAA at 921-9173. Also for young people, 7-11, a Creative Workshop with Edith Kogan will give children an opportunity to explore various media in a small, relaxed group.

ARE YOU SKILLED?
Volunteers Needed. Accountants, people fluent in French, experts with facility in higher mathematics—if you have such a skill and would like to volunteer for a specific job and a specific period of time, the Council of Community Services would like to hear from you.

The Council is setting up a clearing house to help various agencies around Princeton when they have jobs that need special skills. Most of these agencies have limited funds and can't afford to hire specialists. It is the Council's hope that these needs can be matched to the desire of many individuals to contribute in a specific way.

Case workers, for example, are needed right now because of the resettlement of Vietnamese refugees. This would involve short-term work with potential sponsors.

Accountants are needed by several agencies to bring accounting procedures in line with Federal regulations concerning non-profit organizations.

Nurses, both registered and practical, are needed for the bloodmobile.

Naturists are in short supply for teaching children in summer day-camps. Skilled amateurs are welcome.

French and higher mathematics skills are required by another agency.

Public relations specialists—including writers, artists and photographers—are always in demand by agencies who want to improve the ways they tell their story to the public.

At the moment, these are the job opportunities.

"The work is needed now, and can be done on a specific time contract," explains Mrs. Janet Pearson, executive director of the council. "There is an immediate payoff, both for the agency and for the individual volunteer."

Mrs. Pearson and the Council hope that older retired men with skills, will be willing to volunteer on this contract basis. The program itself was suggested by Richard H. Wood, retired, and an eager volunteer. People who aren't retired and have time-

Parade on July 4
The Monmouth Junction Fire Department will hold its 30th annual parade on Friday July 4, starting at 10. It will begin at the Fresh Impressions development on Ridge Road and continue to Rechler Park, where there will be refreshments and trophies will be awarded.

Those who wish to be in the parade should call Dave Furch, parade chairman, at 329-4064.

consuming jobs might be willing to volunteer when there is a specific job to do and a specific time in which to do it, Mrs. Pearson and Mr. Wood believe.

The Council has had, for about five years, a directory for volunteers which lists ways citizens can help about 60 organizations. However, responsibilities outlined in this booklet often mean a long-term commitment in time, and active involvement with the organization. The new clearing house is based on the need for short-term jobs.

Volunteers who are interested are invited to call the Council at 924-5865 between 9 and 1 weekdays.

HELP YOUNG READERS IN Skillman Program. Volunteers, age 16 and up, are still needed for the summer reading program at the Training School for Boys in Skillman.

The program will begin next Wednesday, July 9, and will last through July 14. Volunteers and students will meet Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays of each week, and volunteers themselves will have an orientation session next Monday from 9 until noon.

Each volunteer will be assigned two boys—in the eight to 12 age range—and will work one hour with each boy, teaching basic reading skills.

The volunteer program is open to teachers interested in additional experience, as well as to teenagers. Last year, 25 volunteers participated in the program.

Those who are interested are asked to call Mrs. Geoffrey Sage, 924-1535, or the Training School at 466-2200.

PROGRAM OFFERED
On Canning, Freezing. An illustrated discussion on freezing and canning and food preservation will be given next Monday, July 14, at the YWCA on Avalon Place by representatives from the Mercer County Extension Service.

The program, starting at 10 a.m., is open to the public without charge. Nursery facilities will be available for children 1 and up. For more information, call the YWCA at 924-4825, ext. 22.

STAMP AUCTION SET
At Public Library. Stamp Collectors are invited to bring their collections and duplicates to a stamp auction which will be held in the Meeting Room of the Princeton Public Library on Thursday, July 17 at 10:30.

A 19-minute color film, "Stamps, A Nation's Calling Cards," which features the Apollo 11 "Moon Landing Stamp" and seldom-seen engraving processes, will be shown prior to the auction. Philatelists age 6 and up are welcome.

PROJECT WINS GRANT
From State Historical Commission. A grant from the New Jersey Historical Commission will aid The Princeton History Project in continuing such activities as its weekly column, its monthly gatherings at the public library, its cooperative program with public and private schools—“Changiing counties or local communities, Princeton: A Community Curriculum” — its Princeton Project Director, Eric J. Endersby, of Village Road East, Dutch Neck, received an undergraduate degree in fine arts and architecture from Trinity College, Hartford, where he was graduated cum laude, and he took a master's degree in history museum training in the Cooperstown, N.Y. Graduate Programs.

Where to Go on a Quiet (Hot) Summer Day? State Museum Has Some Helpful Suggestions

What has free admission, is located within easy driving distance and offers a variety of exhibitions, planetarium shows, movies, tours and demonstrations designed to appeal to all ages?

It's the New Jersey State Museum in Trenton. A division of the New Jersey Department of Education, it is open from 9 to 5 Monday through Friday and from 1 to 5 on weekends and most holidays. It will be closed on the 4th of July.

What can summer visitors expect to see at the State Museum?

Exhibits subjects through July and August will include North American Indians, contemporary art, creative photography, major mammals, the Pine Barrens, seashore ecology, the "tree" of evolution and New Jersey paleontology.

A Planetarium lecture discussing man's knowledge of the sun will be presented at 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. Monday through Friday and at 2, 3 and 4 Saturdays and Sundays. Children under 7 will not be admitted to this lecture, but a "Tots and Stars" program especially for young people will be offered at 10 each Friday.

Watch the Sun. Outside the Planetarium at 2 Monday through Friday, weather permitting, sunwatching equipment will be set up to demonstrate what there is to see and how it can be seen with safety. There is no age limitation.

In the Auditorium, selected movies covering a wide variety of subjects are scheduled for 10:30 and 1 Monday through Friday and 2 Saturdays and Sundays. Most shows will last just under an hour, and programs will change every three or four days.

WARNING ISSUED

Against "Swimmer's Ear." Summer is the season for fun in the water, but swimmers should be warned of a painful condition known as "Swimmer's Ear". Physicians in the Pediatrics Department of The Medical Center warn that danger of this infection is especially high in pools, where even chemical treatment does not eliminate all bacteria.

It only takes one dunk for water to become lodged in the ear canal, causing Swimmer's Ear. Children are especially prone, since their ear canals are narrow and water is more easily trapped. The result is an earache, one which is aggravated by any pressure on the ear lobe or small protrusion at the ear opening.

Two simple preventive measures are recommended:

First, make sure the ears are relatively free of wax. A wax buildup helps trap water in the ear canal.

Second, fill a medicine dropper about half full with plain rubbing alcohol. Tilt the head and hold the dropper just at the ear opening, not in the canal. Let the alcohol run down into the ear, and tilt the head the other way to let it run out again.

The alcohol enables the water to flow out. Do this with both ears when the day's swimming is over.

Anyone having pain in the ear should avoid swimming until it has been checked by a physician.

Birdlife in Institute Woods an Appealing Chapter

In New Book on State's Birds by Alumnus of PHS

Woods on the grounds of the Institute for Advanced Study are a bird-watcher's paradise. (William Dix, Jr. Photo)

Princetonians will delight in a new book, "Birds of New Jersey," by Charles Leck, State Ornithologist, to be published Monday by Rutgers University Press. Not only is the author a native of Princeton and a graduate of its high school, but one whole chapter is devoted to birds of the woods on the grounds of the Institute for Advanced Study. That has long been a favorite strolling area, two abreast, for the bereted-thinkers of the Institute, as well as a mecca for those who derive excitement from spotting a Blackburnian or a Bay Beasted Warbler in migrating season.

Subtitled, "Their Habits and Habitats," the book describes in an informal way what birds are likely to be found in a number of New Jersey's varying natural ecosystems and what they are likely to be doing. Dr. Leck notes that most State bird books catalog regional bird life in a "taxonomic order," or by their biological evolutionary classifications.

In considering New Jersey's birds in eight habitat divisions—birds of the ocean, birds of the fields and so on—he selects several State Parks and Forests, two National Wildlife refuges, a city park and two university properties, of which he counts the Institute Woods as one. Then he describes the bird life in each.

The beech and oak forest community of the Institute Woods are actually supplemented by three other communities: two groves of mature pines, Stony Brook and its flood plain and the wet,

About the Author
Charles Leck, author of "Birds of New Jersey," credits his interest in birds to a nature club run by his high school biology teacher, William Alston, who also was his first partner in Christmas bird counts. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Leck of Cranbury Road, Princeton Junction, took him to meetings of the Trenton Naturalist Club and on field trips before he could drive and in short order became avid bird watchers themselves.

Graduating from Princeton High School in 1962, Dr. Leck received a B.S. magna cum laude from Muhlenberg College and a Ph.D. in ornithology from Cornell University. He has served as a research assistant at the Florida State University Center for Tropical Studies and as a visiting research associate at the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute. He has taught at the Audubon National Science Center in Connecticut, at Cornell, at the Fairleigh Dickinson University West Indies Laboratory and at Rutgers, where he is currently associate professor of zoology.

As State Ornithologist and one of the most active field workers in New Jersey, Dr. Leck says that since 1957 he has been on hundreds of field trips to the areas described in the book at all times of year, on research projects, class trips, bird-watching tour groups and bird-banding studies. He lives with his wife, Mary, a botanist who teaches at Rider College, in Kendall Park.

marshy area of the adjacent minute. Princeton Wildlife Refuge. A Dr. Leck's interest in birds total of 180 species of birds is catholic: The common Crow have been recorded there, and Blue Jays get just as in two years Dr. Leck has considerable attention as does spotted 130 of these.

the shyest Warbler, although it is curious that he does not tell us anything about the chatty tone as if walking along many Purple Martins who fill with us on the several broad the apartment nesting boxes trails through the woods, he erected for them in the refuge tells us about the 60-foot marsh. As he writes in the spiraling courtship dives of introduction, "it is the common male Woodcock on moonlit nights that are March evenings; of the way ecologically important," and male House Wrens build this emphasis is one of the several nests for the female to unique qualities of the book.

He tells us a different avian anecdote if we meet a particular bird again in a different area. In the chapter on the Institute Woods, we learn that the Mourning Dove can produce and feed its young very early in the spring because it is able to make in its crop with regurgitated food a kind of milk that is very similar in taste and texture to mammal's milk. In the chapter on the Great Swamp outside Morristown, we further learn that the Mourning Dove is the only native species that can drink water head down, bill immersed; all other birds must tilt their heads back and let gravity do the work.

Other fascinating tidbits from research and field work are recounted. The elaborate courtship bowing and dance of the Yellow-shafted Flickers is, apparently, "dependent on the male's black 'mustache'—it is the mark that identifies the sex for the birds themselves. Part of the research included painting a black facial stripe on a female, which was then treated by other birds as a male."

The Wandering Cowbird, Mr. Leck is candid, too, in telling us what is not known: why the suburban Baltimore Oriole builds its nest directly over the pavement of a heavily trafficked street, for instance, although he says that of the two theories as to why the Brown-headed Cowbird lays its egg in other, smaller birds' nests, he prefers the one that ascribes the action to the Cowbird's earlier days of living with a bison herd that was always on the move. There was no time to build its own nest, and therefore, to continue the species, the Cowbird deposited the egg in the nest of a likely foster mother.

Mr. Watson has been a proctor for the Princeton University Security Police since May, 1974. A long-time resident of Princeton, he is the son of Det. Douglas N. Watson, 37 Fisher Avenue, juvenile officer for the Borough police.

The book is amply illustrated with black and white photographs of birds and of the areas described. There are directions on how to approach each area, half of which are within a 30-minute drive of Princeton. Each chapter begins with a brief description of the flora and fauna which make up the ecological environment for the birds found there.

The final two chapters tabulate the arrival, breeding season and departure of summer residents and of winter residents; the migration dates of transient species; and the breeding months of permanent species. Details on recent Christmas and "big day" bird counts are given.

The appendix lists helpful books, records, pamphlets, magazines, checklists and nature and bird clubs as well as additional places to go to look for birds. Regrettably there is no index by bird.

There are 410 species of birds in New Jersey, we are told; Dr. Leck lists them all, as well as the "accidentals," birds not ordinarily found here but which are blown in by a storm or wander erratically. Any person, claims the author, who actively enjoys bird-watching can easily spot more than 200 species in any year. This attractively presented and informative little book should be of great assistance in reaching that goal.

Or perhaps the reader will simply want to wander down to the Institute Woods on a moonlit night in late March to see that love-smitten Woodcock make its spiralling swoop.

ECONOMIST NOMINATED To President's Council. Burton G. Malkiel, 74 Wilson Road, chairman of the economics department at Princeton University, has been nominated to President Ford's Council of Economic Advisors. A former New York investment banker, Mr. Malkiel joined the Princeton faculty in 1964 and is a specialist in monetary economics and corporate finance.

The nomination to the three member council, which is the economic policy making body of the executive branch, goes to the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs and then to the Senate for confirmation.

Mr. Malkiel, who is 42, is the author of "A Random Walk down Wall Street." Speaking last month at a luncheon sponsored by the New Jersey National Bank, he called corporate investments the number one economic issue in the country and said national economic policy should be directed toward encouraging it. He called for making the ten percent investment tax credit a permanent part of the tax system.

Mr. Malkiel is the second Princeton economics department chairman to be tapped by the Ford administration. Albert Rees, his predecessor, is on leave as director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability.

COURSES SCHEDULED

For Youth by Red Cross. The Youth Services Program of the Princeton Chapter of the American Red Cross will sponsor three courses this summer for area youth. The courses will begin next week and will be free of charge to all participants.

Starting Tuesday, "Pet Sense" will be offered to children between the ages of 8 and 10. This course deals with the responsibility of owning and caring for pets, and will run from 2-3 for four consecutive Tuesdays.

A beginner's cooking course entitled "Getting Back to Basics" will be offered on Wednesdays beginning July 10 from 2-3:30, and will be open to those between the ages of 9 and 11. The course will emphasize proper cooking techniques and kitchen safety, and will run for four consecutive Wednesdays.

Finally, for boys and girls 14 years and older, a beginner's photography course will be offered on Fridays beginning July 10, from 9:30-11:30. The course will continue for five consecutive weeks, and students should have their own cameras.

All classes will be held at the Princeton Red Cross Chapter House, 182 North Harrison Street, and the size of the classes will be limited. It is suggested that those interested in taking these courses enroll as early as possible by calling MaryAnn Fazio at Red Cross, 924-2404, weekdays between 9 and 4:30.

AREA PLAYERS EXCEL
In Regional Tournaments.
Junior tennis players from the Princeton area have made a strong showing in the first two weeks of Middle States regional championships.

The Middle States Girls Grass Court Championships were held in June at the Merion Cricket Club in Haverford, Pa., and Michelle Benjamin, Karen Clark, Kathy Burks, Carrie Balcomb, Natalie Usiskin and Leslie Krause entered. Carrie Balcomb advanced to the third round and Michelle Benjamin to the second, while Natalie Usiskin had the misfortune of meeting the fifth seed, Berta McCallum, in the early going. At the Middle States Girls Championships in Wilmington, Linda Littlell and Tara Lynth competed in the 14-and-under division.

Laurie Roche from Belle Mead played well at the Middle States tournament held at the Peddie School in Hightstown, where she advanced to the finals before losing to Laurie Kavasugh, 6-2, 4-6, 3-6. At the Westfield Tournament, she reached the finals of the consolation bracket.

In Philadelphia for the 14-and-under Championships, Michelle Newman won her first round match, 7-6, 1-0, when her opponent withdrew because of asthma.

Three girls from the Princeton area attended the Middle States Girls Championships at the Shipley School in Bryn Mawr last week.

Carrie Balcomb was runner-up in the 16-and-under championship, in which Karen Clark also competed. In the 18's, Natalie Usiskin defeated Gail Ramsey in the semi's, 3-6, 6-1, 6-1, before dropping the final to Sandy Gibson. Miss Usiskin also competed in a qualifying event for the Ms. America circuit and won her first round match before losing to the fifth seed in the second round.

At the New Jersey District Boys Championships in Ocean City, Dan Aronovic won the 16's division and thus earned the right to compete in a national junior qualifying event held in Bala Cynwyd, Pa. Alan Aronovic and Keith Usiskin also competed.

The latter was seeded sixth and advanced to the quarter finals. Mark Messad and Jeff Lyle entered the 18's division at Ocean City and Jeff qualified for the Cynwyd tournament by reaching the semis.

Three Princeton area players competed in the 12-and-under Boys Championships in Willingboro, N.J. Mark Goodman won his first two matches, then lost to third-seeded Art Martella, 6-2, 6-1. The draw matched George Gallup and Goodman in the very first round.

Bryce Thompson won his first round match before also bowing to Martella. In doubles competition, Goodman and Gallup advanced to the quarter-finals, before bowing, 6-3, 2-6, 1-6.

Princeton Joins N.J.-N.Y. Seven In New Basketball Association

A seven-team New Jersey-New York college basketball association was formed this week, with play to begin during the coming season. Participants will be Princeton, Rutgers and Seton Hall from this side of the Hudson, Columbia, Fordham, Manhattan and St. John's from New York.

Immediate acceptance from the media of the concept behind the move was highlighted by announcement from Channel 9 that it would televise a minimum of nine games as a "Monday night" package. To facilitate such planning, the Rutgers-Princeton game, originally scheduled for Saturday, January 31, has been switched to the following Monday, February 2. Channel 9 said it hoped to arrange a 10th game during the season.

Although formal announcement of the association, to be known as the Big Seven, was not made until Monday at a press conference in New York, scheduling arrangements to make it possible have been in process for some time. Princeton, for example, will meet St. John's in Jadwin Gym on January 24, the first regularly-scheduled contest between these teams in a number of years.

Columbia, an Ivy foe, is naturally on the Tigers' schedule on a home-and-home basis. Seton Hall and Princeton could meet during the Maryland post-Christmas Tournament at College Park, drawings for which have not yet been announced. That leaves only Fordham and Manhattan missing from Princeton's list of opponents next winter.

Games will be played on college campuses or in Madison Square Garden, which Manhattan, Fordham and occasionally St. John's consider a home court. No doubleheaders are planned at this time.

earned him the right to go to the Nationals later this summer. Lapidus reached the finals, where he met nationally-ranked Murray Robinson.

Alex Davidson reached the quarters of the 18's before losing to the eventual consolation finalist David Cusko. Andre Eichenberger gained the quarterfinal round of the 18-and-under division, where he was ousted by Lapidus, 6-2, 6-1. In the 16-and-under, Dan Aronovic was defeated by the tournament's fourth seed.

The Suburban Racquet Club of Valley Forge was the site of the Middle States Boys 14-and-under Championships. Flip Ruben, whose ranking had already qualified him for national competition, managed to reach the semis in singles, where he was defeated by Josh Sarner of Philadelphia. Ruben and Charlie Parkhurst were the runners-up in the doubles tournament.

Scott Clark represented the Princeton area well by advancing to the quarters of the singles competition before being eliminated 6-0, 6-2. A third Princeton player, Simeon Hutner, won his first two matches before losing, 6-1, 3-6, 2-6.

MORE THAN 300 HERE
For Boys Tennis Tournament. The Princeton Boys Open has attracted more than 300 players from throughout the Middle States Region to compete for singles and doubles honors in three age divisions: 14, 16 and 18-and-under. The event is sanctioned by the Middle States Tennis Association.

Play will continue throughout the week, culminating in the finals to be held on Friday. Tentatively scheduled for 10 in singles and 2 in doubles, the final rounds will be played on Princeton University's Pagoda Courts. Admission is free.

Brother Joins Brother in Hole-in-1 Act

Jimmy McCarthy couldn't let his older brother stay one up on him. Jimmy, 15, used a driver last week to make a hole-in-one on the 191-yard ninth hole at Springdale Golf Club, equaling the feat of his brother Bob, who aced the 125-yard 15th with a three-wood when he was 11.

Jimmy was in a foursome that included Eddie Donovan, recently retired Princeton University baseball coach, Norman Lewis and Bob Cronin.

The son of Robert D. McCarthy, 44 Morgan Place, who also plays a lot of golf but has never had a hole-in-one, Jimmy has been playing for the past six years. This spring, as a sophomore, he was one of the leading players on the Princeton High School golf team.

Princetonian Has Tips for Tennis Conditioning

A new paperback that describes conditioning plans for tennis players of all ages and ability has been written by Connie Haynes, 23 Pheasant Hill Road.

The book, "Speed, Strength, and Stamina: Conditioning for Tennis" was written in collaboration with Eve Kraft and John Conroy of the Princeton Community Tennis Program. Published by Doubleday, it is the fourth book in the United States Tennis Association's instructional series which will include more than a dozen titles devoted to the skills and strategies of tennis.

Citing Australians Margaret Court and Roy Emerson, among others, for their devotion to conditioning, Mrs. Haynes regards speed, strength and stamina as the bedrock upon which tennis skills are built. An avid player who has lived in Princeton for 15 years, she follows the conditioning for advanced players from her book.

Mrs. Haynes has devised different conditioning plans for players of all levels, from tournament competitor to elementary school. For those not able to be on the courts daily, she has included alternate routines for a complete workout that can be done anywhere.

The plans are thorough, well-organized and varied. Who can resist the Newspaper Crumble, the Potato Race or Hop-Chop Timing. As a registered nurse and the wife of Dr. William F. Haynes Jr., an internist-cardiologist, Mrs. Haynes knows the importance of general health to the average player and has kept this in mind in planning each of the eight-week exercise programs.

Both Mrs. Haynes and her husband strongly recommend daily exercise to improve physical fitness. Their three children are all active in track as well as tennis.

The book, with many drawings by George Jones, artist for the Sports Illustrated sports series, is available from USTA Publications, 71 University Place. It costs $2.50.

Starter Tony Opperman and Jon Miller, who did a fine job in relief, coming on in the third to pick up the decision with seven strike outs, combined to hold the PB&T batters to just two hits, one each by Seth Sanders and Tom Necedal. Tiger had an easier time against Thorne's Pharmacy, winning handily, 7-0. Bob Cronin, Jon Miller, Al Jandell and Jim Baxter had two hits apiece to give Tiger more than enough muscle.

pitching handcuffed the opposition, with another two-hit win, this time by Jim Baxter. Baxter pitched four innings of no-hit ball before giving up a single to Dan Cowan in the fifth. A single by Bob Cooke in the next inning was the losers' other safety.

Princeton Bank wasted no time in getting back on the winning trail with a 9-7 win over PBA as Carl Nazzaro gave up seven hits and struck out six. Nazzaro got the necessary support from Dave Fitzgerald and Keith Phox, both of whom singled to drive in key runs. The PBA attack was led by Bruno Perna and Tom Ferguson, who had key hits in keeping PBA close.

PBA picked up its first victory of the year with a 4-3 triumph over winless Thorne's. John Rosenthal hurled a complete game in gaining the victory, holding Thorne's to five hits. PBA had to come from behind in the bottom of the last inning to pick up the win. Tom Ferguson knocked in the tying run with a single and the Woody Clark pitched well in a losing effort, giving up six hits, and helping himself at the plate in pacing the Thorne's offense with two hits and scoring twice. Bob Cooke also had two hits for the losers.

IVY INN WINS

In Battle for First Place. Ivy Inn took over sole possession of first place in the Princeton Adult Softball League last week by defeating Center Sports, 5-1, which had won seven straight going into the contest. Ivy took the early lead behind steady defense and eventually coasted to victory. For the winners, Bill McQuade reached base three times.

Conte's won two, as it remained in third place behind Ivy Inn and Center Sports. Putting its offense and defense together, it defeated Kingston Wine and Liquor, 9-2, and P.M.C., 13-0. In the Kingston contest, Luciano Rossi and John Ritter had three-hit performances. Against P.M.C., Conte's hits, while limiting the opposition to two. John Ritter and Hugo Rossi collected three hits each. Ritter also hit a homer, as did Jerry Perpetua and Doug Heil.

In other league action, Andy's defeated Plainsboro Package Store, 12-3, as Jeff Wetterling had three hits, one a homer. Bob Pazdan collected four hits, while Tony Kaufmann added a homer. Center Sports trailed, 3-0, but came back to beat Kingston Wine and Liquor, 11-9. For CS, Jamie Petrone was three-for-three with a homer. In a losing cause, Nick Ryan collected three hits.

PRINCETON STILL 1ST
In Senior Babe Ruth League. The Princeton Senior Babe Ruth team finally found out that all good things must come to an end.

It had managed to avoid defeat with relative ease throughout its first six games, posting a 5-0-1 record. However, last week reality began to catch up with it as it suffered two consecutive losses before returning with three more victories. Its record is now 8-2-1, good for a tie for first in its division and the best record in the league.

The first loss came at the hands of Jacobelli Builders of Ewing in the second meeting between the two teams.

Jacobelli overcame a five-run deficit in the last inning to pull out a 7-6 victory and snap the Princeton undefeated streak.

Princeton pitcher John Madden had effectively stopped the Jacobelli offense with only two hits going into the last inning, but tired in the last as he was tagged with four hits, the big blow coming when Jacobelli catcher Bunky Miller tripled to drive in the tying runs. Miller then promptly scored on a fielder's choice by the next batter.

Princeton had jumped out to a 5-1 lead going into the last of the seventh, with big innings coming in the third and seventh. In the third, Princeton combined a double by Eric Jahn and a single by Dave Robinson with four walks to touch Jacobelli starter Dan Poe for three runs.

Princeton scored twice more in last inning as Paul Soderman connected for one of his two singles and Greg Robinson, Ed Volz, and Jahn all added singles off relievers Phil Lannigan and Dan Cammarata, who got the win.

In the next game, against Harter's Tool and Die, the Princeton bats fell silent as Harter's starter held the team hitless through six innings and pitched a one-hitter. Bill Klank, Harter's pitcher, had his bid for a no-hitter ruined by pinch-hitter Jim LaPlaca who smashed a triple down the first base line. Princeton suffered its second straight defeat, 5-0.

Harter's took advantage of a rare streak of wildness by the Princeton pitchers to gain the win. Harter's big inning was the third, as Princeton starter Dana Nini walked the first two batters he faced. Mike Boonin came in to relieve him and gave up a walk and two singles.

NO. 1 IS NO. 1

Fire Company Team 6-0. After the first six games of the PYBA Little League season, Engine Co. 1 has a perfect 6-0 record and a comfortable lead in first place. However, success was a little harder to come by as the season moved into its fourth week, as it had to quell two strong efforts to damage its record.

Despite a seven-run effort by Post 76 in the fifth inning, No. 1 managed to hold on to win, 13-8. Judd Petrone was the winning pitcher, with relief help. Petrone got lots of support, getting two hits himself, home runs by Owen Robertson and Kevin Johnson, two home runs and a double from Brent Robinson, and two hits apiece from Tim Hunt and Mike Thompson. Peter Nelson and Bruce O'Neill each tripled and John Cifelli scored three runs to spearhead the Post 76 comeback try.

No. 1 remained No. 1 in the league as it defeated Engine Co. 3, 2-1, in a close, well played game. Brent Robinson picked up the victory with a 12 strike-out effort and a triple on offense. For No. 3, Danny Miller had two hits, including a triple, and Kyle Simpson and Richard Johnson each had hits in the losing effort.

U.A. Local 380 upped its record to 3-3 with two victories. It defeated Roma Eterna, 3-2, on the two-hit pitching of Mike McManus and reliever Bill Snead, who each threw three innings of one-hit ball. David Yim picked up both the hits for the losers while McManus tripled to lead Local 380.

Local 380 then moved on to an impressive 14-0 victory over the Elks. Once again it was Mike McManus and Bill Snead combining to get the undefeated in the A Flight, win, giving up one hit, a single to Jeff Suber, and striking out 14. Josh Miller had three hits, McManus had two singles and a double, and James Noble smashed a home run for one of his four.

Post 76 put on a strong rally after falling behind PIASC, this time pulling out a 9-8 victory in the bottom of the last inning. Chip Kleiber was the winning pitcher and hit a double to lead Post 76. He got the rest of his offensive support from Peter Nelson, who added three hits, and Clark Lippincott, who provided two more for Post 76. Billy Perna had two hits, one a triple; Chris Harford had three hits for the losers.

PIASC suffered another loss, this one 12-5 to the Eagles, as Paul Denny hurled the first no-hitter this season, picking up 13 strike outs. Denny also had two hits and Jeff Keany a double and a home run, while Jason Petrone doubled and tripled and Mike Leahy had three hits, one triple.

Roma Eterna trounced the Eagles, 12-3, with Jon Kandell getting the win on the strength of a two-hit, 13 strikeout performance. Mike Mullusky and Jason Petrone each singled for the Eagles' two hits, while Kandell had two hits and Steve MacDonald homered to pace the winners.

The Elks defeated No. 3, 19-11, behind the pitching of Joe Levine and Jeff Suber. Suber had two hits, as did Rich Landauer, and Landauer, Eric Larsen, and Dave Hill all doubled for the winners. On the losing side, Kyle Simpson had two hits, one a triple; Dan Kirton had two hits, as did Greg McGuinn.

Celebrate the Bicentennial! Own this stunning stone Colonial which was built 23 years before the first "glorious 4th". Added to in the 1930's and further improved by its present owners, the floor plan is unique, but most liveable. On the main level, there is a front to back hallway, well proportioned living room with fireplace with outdoor balcony, a private guest room and bath. On the upper level, there are two large bedrooms, each with its own bath. On the lower level, there is a dining room with walk-in fireplace, original beams and wide oak floors; a kitchen, most modern and workable; an informal living room - playroom with slate floor and skylight. A panelled office with air conditioning is completely private. The grounds, especially the back garden, are unusually fine. Fenced and protected by extensive planting for complete privacy, there are huge weeping willows, dogwoods, and a beautifully sited Sylvan Pool. Attached two car garage. Two zone heating. $138,000.

In Edgerstoune, a most interesting two acre lot. Huge forest trees. Steep slopes, and a long frontage on Stony Brook. Perfect for a creative contemporary house. Not without problems, but still an excellent value at Q To buy or not to buy, that is the question.

Because substance and quality are absolutely essential in this questionable economy, buying an Audi 100LS makes more sense today than ever before.

You'll be buying the roominess and comfort of a full-sized car: legroom and headroom usually associated with cars twice the price; orthopedically-designed seats that adjust to your body, that reduce fatigue.

You'll be buying German engineering: the control of front-wheel drive and independent suspension; the raciness of rack-and-pinion steering; the extra security of negative steering-roll radius and outboard-vented front disc brakes.

You'll be buying the added economy of fuel injection: 18 miles per gallon* in the city and a startling 28 miles per gallon* on the highway.

It's an elegant, finely-engineered medium-priced luxury car that is built to last. That's substance and quality in any economy, no question about it.

A tiny three roomed doll house, two storied, in order of a Bliss, or a Convery, probably 1910 or 1915. Fun to furnish, as it takes a smaller scale than the usual

Just arrived in time to go to press, a magic lantern, complete in its own carrying case with a kerosene lamp for the light. It is in perfect working order, with it came 19 hand painted glass slides, about 4 x 6, all depicting important historical events in United States history. Many are copies of famous paintings. The series starts with the Santa Maria of Columbus, continues with the Mayflower and the landing of the Pilgrims, then a number on the Revolutionary War, including Washington at Valley Forge, also a heavy emphasis on the Civil War. Probably these made up a lecture series, possibly for the Bicentennial.
